20. HISTORICAL AND ARCHITECTURAL IMPORTANCE:

The building is a large, 3½ story, red brick, tudor-style, E-shaped building with high gable roof and sharp parapet gables with red stone trim. Main section facade articulated with red brick buttresses between each bay. These bays consist of banks of 3 windows each, with spandrels between the second and 3rd floors. The 1st floor banks of windows in this section have modified tudor-style window heads of red stone. Slightly projecting Jacobean gabled bays flank the center section. Of special note is the mortar, which in the vertical joints is extruded. It is not, however extruded in the horizontal joints. Red stone water table and red stone trim around all windows. This is one of the most attractive and well preserved buildings on the grounds.
